ASSISTANT PROFESSOR OF PUBLIC ECONOMICS, ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT
JOB ADVERTISEMENT

General Public Economics
Applied Econometrics

San Francisco State University, Department of Economics offers an exciting opportunity for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Economics with emphasis in applied econometrics beginning August 2019. We are especially interested in qualified candidates who can contribute to our diverse academic community through their research, teaching, and/or service.

The Department of Economics at San Francisco State University was founded in 1947 and has strived to provide the best possible education to our undergraduate and graduate students and foster original intellectual growth through research. To further strengthen the department’s emphasis on applied policy research, we seek a candidate whose research focuses on quantitative analysis in public economics and who has also either worked on grant-funded research projects during their graduate training or with the potential to apply for state, federal, and local research grants as an independent researcher.

The mission of San Francisco State University is to create and maintain an environment for learning that promotes respect for and appreciation of scholarship, freedom, human diversity, and the cultural mosaic of the City of San Francisco and the Bay Area; to promote excellence in instruction and intellectual accomplishment; and to provide broadly accessible higher education for residents of the region and state, as well as the nation and world. To fulfill its mission, the University is committed to the following goals:

- Attracting, retaining and graduating a highly diverse student body
- Providing disciplinary and interdisciplinary liberal arts and professional education that is academically rigorous and intellectually challenging
- Providing curricula that reflect all dimensions of human diversity, and that encourage critical thinking and a commitment to social justice
- Recruiting, retaining and supporting a diverse faculty whose teaching demonstrates an active engagement with their individual fields of study and whose creative and scholarly work is an extension of the classroom, laboratory or studio
- Employing a staff and administration reflecting the diversity of our student community and the values of the campus;
- Fostering a collegial and cooperative intellectual environment that includes recognition and appreciation of differing viewpoints and promotes academic freedom within the University community; and
- Serving the communities with which its students and faculty are engaged.
Responsibilities: The position requires graduate and undergraduate teaching in the fields of Public Economics and Econometrics, mentoring and advising graduate and undergraduate students, developing an active ongoing scholarship in one’s area of specialty, and ongoing committee and service assignments. Detailed position description is available here.

Qualifications:
Required:
- Ph.D. in Economics with major fields in public economics and econometrics. Candidates must have experience in university level teaching. Terminal degree must be completed by the first day of employment.

Preferred:
- Record of teaching contributions in the areas of Public Economics, Econometrics, Statistics or Applied data analysis
- Active record of quantitative research in public economics and evidence of external support or the potential for external funding of these activities
- Use of big data techniques to answer public policy questions
- Demonstrated ability to incorporate inclusion, diversity, and educational equity in teaching, and/or scholarship/creative works
- Experience teaching and working closely with students from historically under-represented communities
- Record of contributing to collegial, supportive and collaborative work environments

Rank and salary: Assistant Professor of Economics. Salary commensurate with qualifications and experience. The California State University (CSU) provides generous health, retirement and other benefits.

Application: Submit letter of intent/interest including a description of why you are interested in teaching and research at San Francisco State University, a current CV, a statement on how your teaching and scholarship align with the commitment of the Economics Department to foster an inclusive and diverse academic community; job market paper, summary of teaching evaluations, graduate transcripts and three letters of reference. Please apply and submit all materials online at https://www.aeaweb.org/joe/. Hardcopy applications will not be accepted. The closing date for applications is November 16, 2018.

San Francisco State is an Equal Opportunity Employer and does not discriminate against persons on the basis of race, religion, color, ancestry, age, disability, genetic information, gender, gender identity, gender expression, marital status, medical condition, National origin, sex, sexual orientation, covered veteran status, or any other protected status. Reasonable accommodations will be provided for qualified applicants with disabilities who self-disclose by contacting the Senior Human Resources Manager.
Short version (200 words for expensive venues):

San Francisco State University, Department of Economics seeks applicants for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Public Economics beginning August 2019. The mission of San Francisco State University is to create an environment for learning that promotes appreciation of scholarship, freedom, human diversity, and the cultural mosaic of the City of San Francisco and the Bay Area; to promote excellence in instruction and intellectual accomplishment; and to provide broadly accessible higher education for residents of the region, state, the nation, and the world. Ph.D. in Economics with fields in public economics and econometrics and experience in university level teaching required. Salary commensurate with qualifications. Position description available here. Interviews will be conducted at the ASSA meetings. Submit letter of intent including a description of why you are interested in teaching and research at San Francisco State University, a current CV, a statement on how your teaching and scholarship align with the commitment of the Economics Department to foster an inclusive and diverse academic community; job market paper, summary of teaching evaluations, graduate transcripts and three letters of reference. Please apply and submit all materials online at https://www.aeaweb.org/joe/. The closing date for applications is November 16, 2018.